

Magma hygiene mattress

The mattress that meets the highest fire standards

Magma hygiene mattress is a completely new mattress from Järven Health Care. It has been developed for use in environments where the highest fire standards must be met, such as Psychiatric institutions, detention centers and jails.

The Magma hygiene mattress meets these demands without sacrificing comfort or hygiene. It also adds to a safer work environment for employees in these institutions and protects the patient/user as well.

The Magma hygiene mattress meets the Swedish SS 876 00 10 standard which equals the NT-Fire 032 standard, well known for being one of the highest fire safety standards for mattresses in the world. This mattress is the first mattress to be tested and approved for SS 876 00 10 by the Swedish SP Institute (Government Testing and Research Institute).

The Magma hygiene mattress also fulfills the BS standard BS6807:2006 medium Hazard.

Magma hygiene mattress

Extra flame resistant

The Magma hygiene mattress is the first hygienic mattress fulfills fire demands in most countries in the world, SS 876 00 10, which equals the well known NT-Fire 032 and BS6807:2006 medium hazard.

Features of the Magma hygiene mattress:

The Magma hygiene mattress is made from 37 kg/m³ density foam surrounded by our Lentex protective cover. This provides excellent durability and comfort.

The Magma hygiene mattress is laminated with our unique surface layer, Lentex, which repels moisture and fluid. Lentex is a very flexible hygienic surface layer which contributes to the Magma hygiene mattress's excellent pressure-reducing qualities. The white colour aids early discovery of soiling on the surface of the mattress, an extra help for achieving better hygiene

The Magma hygiene mattress is targeted towards environments where extra high fire resistance demands are required. The Magma hygiene mattress is extremely fire resistant and emits 50% less smoke than standard mattresses.
